Marines Kill 117 Commies

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
SAIGON (AP) — Several battalions of U.S. Marines and a Communist force estimated at 2,000 soldiers were reported locked in heavy fighting today on a coastal plain near Tam Ky, 375 miles northeast of Saigon.

The U.S. Command said the Marines, backed by air strikes and artillery, were assaulting the Communist positions, described as well-prepared ones in rolling terrain.

Interim reports listed 117 North Vietnamese troops killed. There was no report on Marine casualties.

The fighting began shortly before noon yesterday when Marines from the 5th Marine Regiment ran into the Communist force.

In the air war over North Vietnam, U.S. Air Force jets pounded railroad yards and airfields yesterday 22 to 50 miles northwest of Hanoi. Other Air Force planes struck at surface-to-air missile sites and rocket launcher positions just north of the demilitarized zone.

The U.S. Command made no mention of any plane losses. Carrier-based Navy fliers struck at truck convoys, truck parks, storage areas and a bridge in various locations around the city of Vinh.

Over South Vietnam, U.S. B52 bombers made two pre-dawn raids today. One was on a Communist tunnel and bunker complex in Binh Duong Province, 20 miles north of Saigon.

The second raid was on Communist base camps, training areas and fortified positions in Quang Ngai Province about 300 miles north of Saigon.

Government troops claimed victory over the Viet Cong's 808th Mobile Battalion in a fight yesterday south of the demilitarized zone, where U.S. Marines bear the main burden of coping with Communist soldiers.

Spokesmen announced a task force of South Vietnamese paratroopers, infantry and armor, with air and artillery backing, chopped up the crack 500-man enemy detachment and killed at least 150. There was no report on government casualties.

The action flared in brush country of the coastal plain less than five miles east of the U.S. Marine base at Dong Ha 12 miles below the DMZ. It is the southeastern anchor point of a hotspot sector that the Marines call Leatherneck Square.

A few miles away, U.S. jet planes and artillery blasted at the bunkers of North Vietnamese regulars holding a low ridge line in sawgrass between the two western bases of the square, Con Thien and Camp Carroll.

Soviet Government Charges U.S. of Bombing Ship; 2 Hurt

By RAYMOND H. ANDERSON
(C) N.Y. Times News Service
MOSCOW — The Soviet government charged that United States planes bombed a Soviet merchant ship in a North Vietnamese port yesterday.

Filing a "resolute protest" against the alleged incident, Moscow asserted that two crewmen of the vessel had been "badly wounded" and that the ship had been damaged.

The protest was in a note handed by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to John C. Guthrie, charge d'affaires of the U.S. Embassy during the absence of Ambassador Lewellyn E. Thompson, who left Thursday for consultations in Washington.

The note warned that the Soviet government would be compelled to take "appropriate measures" to ensure the safety of its ships if similar attacks occurred.

Moscow demanded that those responsible for the attack be punished and that Washington give assurances that there will be no more attacks on Soviet vessels.

The delivery of the note, the third on bombing incidents in less than a year, was reported by Tass, the Soviet press agency.

An embassy spokesman confirmed last night that the protest note had been received and relayed to Washington, but he declined to comment on its contents.

According to Tass, the Soviet government charged that American planes bombed the Turkistan, a diesel ship, yesterday while it was in the Port of Kampha, 50 miles north of the Port of Halphong.

The note denounced the alleged attack as a "craving violation of the freedom of navigation, an act of banditism which may have far-reaching consequences."

"The Soviet government makes a resolute protest to the government of the United States, which bears the entire responsibility for these provocative bandit actions by the American armed forces," Tass quoted from the note.

The note added this warning: "The government of the U.S.S.R. declares that in the event of repetition of such actions on the part of the armed forces of the United States, the Soviet Union will be obliged to take appropriate measures to ensure the safety of Soviet ships."

The note, as reported by Tass, did not specify what such "measures" might be.

The Soviet Union has been sending increasing quantities of weapons and industrial equipment to North Vietnam as American air attacks have been intensified. The total of assistance has not been made public, but Moscow reported early last year that value of its aid to the Hanoi regime in 1965 was about $500 million.

Much of the Soviet aid is reported to be moving by train through Communist China under an agreement reached with Peking last winter permitting North Vietnamese to take control of the cargoes at the Soviet-Chinese border and accompany them through China.

Soviet ships are reported to carry mainly petroleum products, trucks and industrial equipment to North Vietnam, with anti-aircraft rockets, jet fighter planes and other military equipment moving by train.

Wilson Warns Crisis Could Lead To General War

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
BY JOHN W. FINNEY

WASHINGTON — Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain warned here yesterday that the Middle East crisis could lead to general war if steps were not taken to lift the United Arab Republic's proclaimed blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba.

"Time is not on our side," Wilson cautioned repeatedly at a news conference at the British Embassy.

He said that if the Gulf of Aqaba was not opened soon to Israeli shipping, "a very, very dangerous situation" would be created that would raise the threat of military action by Israel against the U.A.R.

This is turn would raise the possibility of a "nasty war" in the Middle East, he said, and "perhaps a much wider conflict might be only a matter of hours."

Wilson held a nationally televised news conference in the rotunda of the British Embassy after meeting for four hours with President Johnson at the White House. The two leaders continued their discussions this evening at dinner at the White House.

The sense of urgency to their talks was underscored by the exchange of comments between the two leaders on Wilson's arrival by helicopter on the White House lawn.

"We come together in another time of trouble, when peace and justice are again in the balance," the President declared. Wilson responded by emphasizing "the gravity of the situation the world is racing at this time."

Their discussions arranged some weeks ago, covered such subjects as the withdrawal of British forces from east of the Suez and the Vietnam war. But the principal subject of their meeting was the Middle East crisis that erupted nearly two weeks ago when President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the U.A.R. forced the withdrawal of a United Nations emergency force from the Sinai Peninsula and proclaimed a blockade of Israeli ships and strategic cargoes for Israel moving

Israelis and Syrians Clash; Report 3 Killed

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
JERUSALEM, Israel — The first fatalities of the Middle East crisis were inflicted early yesterday when two Israeli soldiers and a Syrian commando were killed in an exchange near the Syrian frontier.

The clash—the first along the Syrian border since the current Arab-Israeli dispute erupted more than two weeks ago—was announced by an army spokesman here. A third Israeli soldier was reported wounded.

The deaths were also the first inflicted on Israeli troops since last November, when three soldiers died after a mine exploded under their truck.

According to the army report, a four-man Israeli patrol intercepted four Syrian commandos near Kefat Hanasi, a kibbutz about five miles north of the Sea of Galilee.

It was shortly after 2 a.m., and the Syrian unit was moving back toward the frontier, about a mile to the East. The units opened fire on each other and the chatter of the submachine guns aroused the residents of the kibbutz.

After the shooting, a submachine gun, four grenades and several nine detonators were found near the dead Syrian. This led to the conclusion that the commandos had been engaged in sabotage inside Israeli territory.

Israeli government sources said they had been expecting an incident along the Syrian frontier as a result of the mutual defense pact signed by Jordan and Egypt on Tuesday. Damascus radio has denounced the pact and chastized Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser for allying with the "reactionary regime" of King Hussein of Jordan.

"The Syrians were getting sick of watching Nasser get all the attention," one source said.

The current tension between the Arabs and Israelis began after a Syrian border incident on April 7, when airplanes joined the fighting and six Syrian MIGs were downed. Since then, however, most of the military activity has been concentrated on Israel's border with Egypt in the Sinai.

The report of the incident yesterday heightened the sense of impending danger that has permeated every aspect of life here.

It did not dampen, however, the public's enthusiasm over the appointment of Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan as defense minister.

Most Israeli newspapers praised the selection of Dayan. The independent Hayom wrote that the appointment would serve "both to raise national morale and give the enemy a last stern warning."

Diplomats Try to Solve Crisis Without Debate

BY SAM POPE BREWER
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Diplomats turned yesterday to private diplomacy to try to resolve the Israeli-Arab crisis without the bitter debate expected in an open Security Council meeting.
They hoped to work toward a consensus that would avoid hardening positions as open debate might do. This failed and they agreed to meet formally at 10 a.m. today to discuss the resolutions before them and anything that may be presented.
Brazil and India were both expected to make proposals though neither had a completed draft resolution ready last night. In essence, their efforts were intended to get around difficult points in the two drafts presented respectively by the United States and the United Arab Republic.
The fear of delegates engaged in consultations yesterday was that debate might harden po-soldier who received the letter in September of 1965.

In the last two charges, the tribunal struck "intent" and substituted "culpable negligence," an apparently minor change.
All the charges except that of disobeying a command carry a maximum of three years, but under the law the maximum total sentence would be 11 years.
The court panel returned its verdict at 7:55 p.m. It began deliberations at 2:05 p.m., interrupted once for further instructions from the judge and again for assistance in drafting the verdict.
Basking, the president, announced that the verdict was reached by secret written ballot with two-thirds, or seven, of the members concurring.
The trial, which produced unprecedented defense theories, began May 10. But the judge ruled out both the defense efforts to prove that Green Beret troops committed war crimes and that Levy's medical ethics gave him the right to disobey an order.
Morgan and Capt. Richard Shusterman, the military prosecutor, made their summations to the court-martial board yesterday morning.

GOOD NEIGHBORS

A coffee hour held at the home of Mrs. Milton Peterson as part of the "Good Neighbors" was highlighted by a film program presented by Mrs. Emory Mahan, chairman of the Neighborhoods and Homes Division of the Public Education Committee of the Warren County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Neighbors Help Fight Cancer

There are a multitude of different ways in which a person can be a good neighbor, and during these past months many women throughout Warren County have had a special opportunity to indicate their neighborliness, by participating in a program initiated and directed by Mrs. Emory Mahan. Mrs. Mahan is chairman of the Neighborhoods and Homes Division of the Public Education Committee of the Warren County Unit of the American Cancer Society. Through her efforts during the past few weeks, 25 coffees have been held in private homes. Yet rather than the more usual small talk, general conversation was preceded by the showing of two films: "Time and Two Women" and "Breast Self-Examination." Following the film showings, talk ran free, but seldom without significance. One of the most heartening facets of this program was to hear of the many personal experiences—the many cures of cancer—which are evident right here within the county. In almost every instance, the cures can be attributed to an awareness of the Seven Warning Signals and prompt visitation to a doctor as soon as any one of the seven becomes apparent. If any other woman within the county would like to have a few friends in for coffee and have the opportunity to be a good neighbor in this very special way, she may call the local office of the American Cancer Society to arrange for a showing of these or some other films.

3 More Cig Makers Hike Prices

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — Three more major cigarette manufacturers raised their prices to wholesalers yesterday. The latest boosts follow the increases instituted by the American Tobacco Company and R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, the industry's leaders, on Thursday. Yesterday, Brown & Williamson Tobacco Company, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company and P. Lorillard Company raised the wholesale prices of most of their cigarette brands by 25 cents a thousand. In addition, Brown & Williamson and Lorillard increased the prices of the 100-mm. brands, or extra large, by 75 cents per thousand. Philip Morris, Inc., the other major manufacturer, which has not yet announced its plans concerning the price boost, said it was still "studying the situation."

LBJ to Fly To New York For Fund Event

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — President Johnson plans to fly to New York this evening for three Democratic fund-raising events that will bring out an assortment of demonstrators. Two separate groups — one composed of dissident Democrats and the other a confederation of peace groups — will state protests against the President's Vietnam policy. A group of Arab-Americans will urge Johnson not to intervene in the Middle East crisis. Major Jewish organizations, seeking the firmest U.S. support for Israel, have decided against demonstrating. They will save their fire for a major rally that has been called in Washington for the middle of next week.

Looking for a home is a dachshund dog less than a year old that is a house-broken male. Residents of Jackson Run Road saw three young men drop the little dog out of their car and speed off. So these kind folks have a fine little brown dachshund that they are eager to find a good home for. They report that it is a thin dog, with ribs showing, and has evidently not been well treated, also that it is a very desirable little dog, and would make some family a wonderful pet. Reorganization of Army's Reserve and Guard Announced

BY BENJAMIN WELLES
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The Defense Department announced yesterday its long-awaited reorganization of the Army's reserve and National Guard forces.
Fifteen low-priority National Guard divisions will be replaced by brigades that are expected to be maintained in roughly the same geographical areas. The divisions are manned now at only 50 per cent of full or wartime strength. The brigades will be kept at better than 90 per cent of wartime strength.
A full-strength division consists of 15,000 men a brigade of about 5,000.
"The reserve forces of the United States are in the best shape in their history but more needs to be done," deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus R. Vance said at a news conference at the Pentagon. At the same time, Vance conceded that the Defense Department had "recognized the facts of life" and had dropped its proposals of 1964 and 1965 to merge the Army National Guard of 418,500 men and the U.S. Army Reserve of 260,000 men.
He also indicated that the Pentagon had abandoned earlier plans to cut the overall reserves by about 100,000 men from their current level of 678,500. Influential congressional leaders have not only strongly resisted Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's proposal, first broached in 1961, to merge the National Guard and Army Reserves, but have also insisted on retaining a mandatory "floor" of 640,000 men in the two organizations.
The Pentagon has now bowed to congressional insistence on these two key points in a bid to win acceptance of the other reorganization aims.
The Army's future reserve components will consist of eight combat divisions, 18 combat brigades, and 13 training divisions plus reinforcing and supporting units. These will total 640,000 men organized in units at 92 per cent of full wartime strength. The National Guard will consist of 400,000 men; the Army Reserve 240,000.
Vance, who was with Stanley R. Resor, secretary of the Army, and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, said that the goal of the new reorganization plan was to have every reserve unit ready for duty within eight weeks of mobilization.
The new plan which has been worked out by the Joint Chiefs of Staff to strengthen the readiness of the reserves for contingencies "anywhere in the world," will go into effect following this summer's active duty maneuvers, he said. It is expected to be virtually complete within a year without what Resor called an "unacceptable amount of turbulence."

Jamestown Guard Involved in Change

Jamestown National Guard is expected to be changed as a result of a sweeping overhaul of the National Guard and Army Reserves, announced yesterday afternoon by Pentagon officials. Capt. Carl A. Gustafson, commander of the local guard unit, said that while he has received no official word on the proposed changes he expects Jamestown to have a National Guard unit.
The Pentagon proposal calls for the elimination of 15 National Guard divisions including New York state's 27th Armored Division. Jamestown's unit

13 Students Hospitalized In Breakout of Typhoid

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
PALO ALTO, Calif. — Thirteen Stanford University students were hospitalized yesterday in a week-old outbreak of typhoid that seems to have been spread from the kitchen of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity house. The most seriously ill had been Dick Roth, a gold medal winner in the 400-meter medley swimming race at the 1964 Olympics. However, he was ambulatory yesterday and expected to be released from the hospital soon.
Of the 13 students hospitalized, seven cases were confirmed as typhoid, and six were suspected cases. In addition, five other members of the fraternity showed in tests that they had had infections which did not make them ill. One cook also had a typhoid infection.
The first cases were diagnosed late last week, and the fraternity kitchen was closed on Friday, May 26. About 45 students live in the fraternity house. Most of them are athletes.
In addition to Roth, the students with confirmed cases of typhoid were Timothy Brown, Houston, Tex., and five football players, Mike Hieber, Mountain View, Calif., John Hux, Van Nuys, Calif., John Read, Alameda, Calif., Tim Sheehan, Delano, Calif., and Bob Conrad, Los Angeles, who was hospitalized in Los Angeles.
All the cases but two were among fraternity members. One of the other two was the cook. The second was a close friend

Community Effort Needed

As the city of Warren moves forward with its urban renewal program, housing in the downtown business district and old downtown buildings, badly needed for the city's future, are being torn down on an ambitious program of renewal project to improve the city's appearance and business district and to replace the decaying buildings. And there are plans afoot to solve another critical problem in this community — housing.

So Warren is on the move. The trouble is that it is moving in several different directions at once on the same problem — modernizing the community to meet the standards of living of the 1970's.

There are signs that various governmental groups and advisory groups are beginning to pull in the same direction. The passing of the housing, building, and zoning codes pave the way for the Liberty street urban renewal project, the first step in making downtown Warren the nerve center of a vitalized community.

But attention goes naturally from the Liberty street project to the larger Penn-Market project, which can be stymied by a major problem: relocation of the businesses.

The Paltry $1.3 Million

HARRISBURG — They were talking about billions behind closed doors in the State Capitol this week. But the big flap, for public consumption, involved a paltry $1.3 million. That's the price tag the Governor's office puts on the State's "public relations" operations. Balanced against a budget of $1.66 billion, this comes to .007 (seven-tenth thousandths, one zero more than James Bond) of the Commonwealth's cost of doing business.

The money is allocated in the various departments for the purpose of informing the public. As a practical day to day matter, this means supplying factual background for the press and broadcasters. They insist on calling this procedure "public relations" and-or "publicity" but these descriptions are inaccurate.

Public relations has been perverted to mean a number of ridiculous things like buying drinks for people and keeping the boss's foot out of his mouth. Publicity, on the other hand, is material prepared for publication in behalf of a politician, politician or the State, or charitable organization, to raise funds.

Tails You Lose!

WASHINGTON — "Heads we win, tails you lose!" is the simplest summary of the thinking that obviously lies behind the grim new Soviet power play in the Middle East.

President Johnson has little hope of preventing the very heavy Western losses that this power play is likely to cause. His one hope is to save the honor of the United States by preventing genocide. For the essence of the Soviet power play is a long forward step toward full backing for the Arab demand for actual extinction of the state of Israel.

American officials are still whistling in the graveyard about this aspect of the matter because they still have a very faint hope that somehow or other the Soviet leaders can be persuaded to modify the position they have taken. But with Soviet warships moving through the Dardanelles that hope looks fainter with every passing hour.

Meanwhile, Gamal Abdel Nasser has boasted, in tones of vicious triumph, about a "message from Premier Alexei Kosygin that the Soviet Union stands with us in this struggle and will not allow any country to interfere as things return to their 1956 status." He has added that this was only a first step to a return to the pre-1948 status-by which he means Israel's total destruction.

Nasser's claim has in turn been given considerable color of probability by the intervention of the Soviet member of the U.N. Security Council, Nikolai Fedorenko, demanding that the U.N. debate proceed entirely "within the framework" of the Egyptian complaint about Israeli "aggression." It is, therefore, clear that any attempt to prevent "return to the 1956 status" is going to be a pretty nerve-racking business.

"Interfering as things return to the 1956 status" means, in plain terms, breaking the blockade of Israel's southern life line, through the Gulf of Aqaba, which Nasser has abruptly imposed. This country long ago committed itself, in a solemn manner, to keep the Gulf of Aqaba open as an international waterway. Attempts are going forward to organize a U.S.-led blockade-breaking party including Britain and other maritime powers.

Whether or not the United States acts alone or as a member of a club, there will clearly be a Cuba-like movement before the illegal blockade is dealt with. If Nasser is forced to climb down in this humiliating manner, moreover, he is then highly likely to attack Israel on a wide front, as he is physically preparing to do. For what that may be worth, all of Israel's Arab neighbors are also pretty sure to join the Egyptians. Hence, the Israelis may also be driven to attack first.

Such then are the immediate prospects. The best American analysts are still persuaded that the Soviets emphatically do not want a second thermonuclear confrontation, in full second-Cuba style, over Nasser's Aqaba blockade. They are also persuaded that the Soviets do not intend to intervene on the ground in an Arab-Israeli war, if such a war breaks out. But that does not change the "heads we win, tails you lose" potential of the Soviet Middle Eastern power play.

Make the most optimistic assumptions. Suppose that the blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba is successfully dealt with by the United States and the maritime powers. Suppose that there is no resulting Arab-Israeli war or that the Israelis successfully defend themselves against their neighbors — as there are good reasons to hope that they can do.

For the long term, even if the immediate crisis resolves itself in this hopeful manner, the Soviets in this case will be enormous gainers, and the Western powers will still be enormous losers. For the United States and any other Western powers that give aid in breaking Nasser's blockade will emerge from the struggle as Israel's sole protectors, and the Soviets will emerge as Israel's bitter enemy and the great patron of the Arab cause.

If Nasser is defeated by the Israelis, he may not survive as an effective leader. Defeated mountebanks, however vicious, rarely do survive. But the loss of Nasser will surely wound few feelings in Moscow, where the Egyptian dictator is probably thought about much as Fidel Castro is thought about.

Some 60 percent of the world's petroleum resources; $500 million a year, on the U.S. balance of payments; quite possible bankruptcy for Britain; dependence of all of Western Europe on oil provided by Arab states that have become mere Soviet clients—these are the stakes upon the table.

If these stakes can be won by participation in genocide—for that is what promoting the present threat to Israel's very existence really amounts to—why, then, it seems, genocide is a fairly trifling consideration in Moscow's eyes.

Propaganda About War

ATHENS—The closer one gets to the Middle East crisis, the greater the tension. Athens itself is calm, but the families of American officials, evacuated from the Middle East, are here in force. The propagandists are filling the air with news of American and Soviet ships maneuvering for position, of Arab troop deployments, and of Israeli military precautions, and the diplomats are full of ominous speculations.

Reston

A vast guessing game is now in progress on Soviet intentions. Already the question of what Cairo and Tel Aviv will do has been overwhelmed by the larger question of what Moscow and Washington will do, and, on the Soviet intentions, there seem to be two popular theories.

The first is that the Soviet Union is putting pressure on the United States in the Middle East in the hope of relieving U.S. military, and particularly bombing, pressure on North Vietnam. This has been China's charge to the U.S.S.R. for months: divert the Americans with new crises elsewhere.

Nobody around here knows, of course, but the Soviets have recently gone out of their way to interfere with U.S. naval maneuvers in the Sea of Japan. The Chinese Communists have been stirring up trouble for the British in Hong Kong. There have been military incidents along the 38th Parallel in Korea. And now we not only have the Russians backing the Arabs diplomatically, but Soviet warships moving out of the Dardanelles into the Mediterranean to shadow the naval maneuvers of the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

In support of this theory of calculated Soviet pressure, there is some evidence that the Soviets decided shortly after the failure of Premier Kosygin's efforts to stop the bombing and start peace talks in Vietnam during the lull in the fighting at the end of the winter, to change U.S.-Soviet relations.

In Geneva, U.S. officials testify that the negotiations on stopping the spread of nuclear weapons, which had been going well, suddenly took a bad turn. Also, the Soviet ambassador in Washington, Anatoly F. Dobrynin, who was popular in Washington for his relaxed and even genial conversations on the importance of improving U.S.-Soviet relations, was recalled to Moscow in mid-March and has not returned to his post since that time.

So this is one theory: Moscow is saying to Washington: If you are going to increase the pressure on North Vietnam, which you obviously have the power to do, we will increase the pressure in the Middle East and elsewhere if necessary, in order to force a settlement in Vietnam.

The second theory being discussed by the diplomats in Western Europe is even more ominous. It is that the U.S. is now involved in Vietnam, with more than half a million men involved in that war, that the U.S.S.R. feels that it can now risk or even achieve the ancient Russian dream of expanding to the south and breaking out of its frozen continental landmass to the warm ports of the Persian Gulf and the Mediterranean.

This is the historic issue the diplomats are talking about. As they see it and perhaps exaggerate it, the issue is not regional but global. It is not the balance of power in the Middle East but the balance of power in the world. It is not whether Nasser can cork the Gulf of Aqaba, but whether nations at the gates of the narrow seas of the Baltic and the Black and Red seas can control the commerce of their historic enemies.

And what will Washington do about all this? Here the diplomats in Europe are especially interesting. For most of them have been critical of our use of power in Vietnam and are fearful that we will hesitate to use it in the Middle East. But mainly they are baffled. They believe our arguments for defending both principle and vital interests are even more valid in the Arab-Israeli dispute than in Vietnam, but they do not know what the President will do.

Also, they are embarrassed. For as the Middle East crisis develops, they find that they have to rely on Washington for a solution. Here in Athens they see all the tragic symbols of a pre-war situation: the refugees from the critical area, the troop and naval maneuvers, the strident holy war propaganda, and they feel helpless.

What will Moscow and Washington do? Europe itself has no answers. Even the Arabs and Israel are trapped. The crisis is beyond both Europe and the Middle East. It now depends on Washington and Moscow, and even the friends of both do not know what they will do.

Reporters Were Told Nothing

WASHINGTON — Reporters were told nothing about the critical 90-minute conference last week between President Johnson and Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban, from White House insiders, however, this column has now learned what was said.

The President would have preferred to avoid the confrontation, kept Eban waiting most of the day for an appointment.

While storm clouds darkened over the Near East, LBJ busied himself with such urgent matters as accepting a season pass to the Washington Whips soccer games. He also greeted the new Iranian ambassador, said goodbye to the departing Italian ambassador and consulted with his ambassadors on the problems of Peru, Venezuela and El Salvador.

When Eban was finally admitted into the President's oval office late in the evening, he quickly got to the question the President didn't want to answer: What was the United States going to do about the Egyptian blockade of the Tiran Strait?

Eban recalled that Israel had given up strategic Sharm El Sheikh, which commands the narrow strait, at the specific request of the Eisenhower administration in 1957. The United States asked Israel to move her troops out and permit U. N. troops to move in.

The United States, declared the aide-memoire, "believes that the Gulf of Aqaba comprehends international waters and that no nation has the right to prevent free and innocent passage in the gulf and through the straits giving access thereto."

Eban asked President Johnson whether the United States intended to honor this. Discreetly he left unsaid the fact that the United States has sent 450,000 troops to Vietnam to honor a commitment less specific, in an area less strategic.

The President expressed sympathy for the Israeli position and reiterated that the United States regards the blocked strait as an international waterway. However, he warned that Israel would hurt herself in world eyes if she took military action to break the blockade.

This could alienate many countries, he said, which otherwise would support the principle of free access. It would be better, he suggested, if Israel would let the big maritime powers bring pressure upon Egypt to keep the international waterway open.

The President asked Eban to give world diplomacy a chance to settle the crisis, meanwhile promised to press for a satisfactory solution.

Note — What irks Israeli leaders is that, while they have held back, Egypt has taken the ground overlooking the Straits of Tiran pre-

Minor Parties, Major Problems

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The election year 1968 is beginning to look like 1948, when Strom Thurmond's states rights party and Henry Wallace's progressive party operated on either edge of the usual political spectrum.

Down in Alabama, George Wallace, is counting his money and honing up his oratory, to the extent that political pros elsewhere generally believe that he will not only be a presidential candidate but possibly a decisive factor.

It is not so certain that there will be a "peace candidate" in the field, but given the likelihood that neither Wallace nor any conceivable Republican candidate will offer a sharply dovish alternative to President Johnson, a respectable peace party also is a good bet.

For the longer run, the Constitutional amendment to provide for direct popular election of presidents (which is given a good chance of congressional approval) is almost sure to encourage minor parties. The electoral-vote system, under which a winner in a given state takes all its electoral votes, makes a minor party almost a hopeless cause. It has not been widely noticed, however, that President Johnson's plan to pay for presidential campaigns from the Federal Treasury — which the Senate Finance Committee begins studying this week — would sharply disadvantage a minor party and perhaps make the present major parties into a sort of permanent political establishment.

Under the Johnson plan, a minor party could have its bills paid by the taxpayers—but only under sharp restrictions. In the first place, it would have to poll 5 per cent of the total vote—and no minor party in this country, save Robert M. LaFollette's progressives in 1924 (16.6 per cent) has been able to do that. (The Bull Mooseers of 1912 got 27.4 per cent but they were actually a major faction of the Republican party rather than a "minor party.")

Thurmond got 39 electoral votes and 1,169,063 popular votes in 1948; at 2.4 per cent of the total popular vote, he wouldn't have got a dime from the Treasury. Neither would Henry Wallace, who also polled over a million votes. Next year, if, say, 70 million votes are cast, George Wallace would have to poll 3.5 million (three Thurmonds' total) to make a dent in the federal kitty.

Moreover, while the Democrats and the Republicans will be entitled to draw funds from the Treasury as the campaign progresses, no minor party can collect a cent until after the election, when it can be reimbursed at whatever rate of spending per vote the majors will have established.

Thus, while the majors are financed from the start, the minors will have to scratch where they can for operating money, with no guarantee that they can win enough votes to get any, much less all of it back from the government.

This unquestionably will give the Democrats and Republicans an enormous, built-in, federally sponsored financial advantage over everybody else. In its turn, this advantage will make it almost impossible for any other party ever to replace or seriously challenge the two viously held by Israel and later by the United Nations. The Egyptians have hastily fortified this strategic position, making it extremely costly for Israel to take it back by military force.

An illustration of how to sour American sympathy for Israel is now taking place in Miami Beach, where Israeli politics has got mixed up with Florida politics.

In the current race for mayor of Miami Beach, Mayor Elliott Roosevelt, second son of President Roosevelt, is being challenged in a run-off by Jay Dermer, whose wife is an Israeli. Both have been campaigning passionately against Elliott, partly on the charge that when his father was President in 1937 he would not allow the "Exodus," with a load of refugees, to land in Florida en route to Cuba.

Whatever may have been the facts in this 30-year-old case, Elliott Roosevelt was then a youngster in college and had nothing to do with his father's policies. Furthermore, in later years Elliott has taken over the work of his late mother in promoting bonds for Israel and has attended dinner after dinner in an effort to sell bonds and support Israel.

Despite this, some synagogues in the Miami Beach area are campaigning with the slogan "Vote for a Jew, don't vote for a guy," while Mrs. Dermer and her husband are campaigning on the promise that if Dermer is selected mayor of Miami Beach he can help to stop the threat of war against Israel.

Note — Most American Jews pride themselves on voting for a candidate for his abilities, not for his religion. In the last New York mayoral race, New York Jews had a chance to vote for Abe Beame, a fellow Jew and a Democrat, who opposed John Lindsay, a Protestant Republican. Forty per cent of the New York Jews voted for Lindsay.

The Liberty Lobby, whose founder regards Nazi Germany as the model for his brand of "liberty," has joined the right-wing drive to recall Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

Recall petitions have been printed in California by cosmetics distributor William Penn Patrick, a militant right-winger who ran against Ronald Reagan in the Republican primary because he considered Reagan too liberal.

Now Willis Carto, the chief patriarch and panjandrum of the Liberty Lobby, has thrown his organization into the fray. He is best known for his letters deploring the defeat of Adolf Hitler as a "tragedy for civilization" and advocating the shipment of American Negroes to Africa.

The Liberty Lobby has called a series of nine meetings throughout Idaho to set up a "telephone network" to organize a "grass roots" response to liberal legislation. The network also will be used to stir up opposition to Church.

License Wars Like Fairs

WASHINGTON—The awkward timing of the latest Middle East crisis demonstrates again the need for an international bureau of wars. The idea, which was first proposed twelve years ago at the Geneva Conference on rational warfare, envisions an international agency similar to the body that licenses world fairs.

International control of world fairs has arisen from the sensible realization that the world would soon tire of world fairs if every country on earth exercised its sovereign right to hold one whenever it wanted to; four or five world fairs running simultaneously would not only place heavy strains on nations that like to show off at such displays, but might also provoke intense anti-exhibitionism, demonstrations and angerous political emotions among the fair-weary masses.

The same reasoning is applicable to warfare; hence the idea for an international bureau of wars. A nation that wanted to hold a war would simply file an application with the bureau. The application would set forth the projected size of the war, its location, its cost and the dates of its beginning and end.

Most wars would be required to shut down after six months, and in no case would any war be licensed to run over two years. The bureau would space them at comfortable time intervals and allocate them equitably among the continents, so that no one area would be discriminated against.

Had the bureau been established when it was first proposed, we should not have the imbroglio that prevails today. In the first place, the United States would never have been granted a permit for a permanent war in Southeast Asia.

Having held a three-year war in Asia during the early 1950's, and not having had one since, the U.S. was clearly entitled to another war, but just as clearly not entitled to hold it in Asia, and not entitled to hold one anywhere for longer than six months.

In all likelihood, the bureau would have granted President Johnson the right to conduct a three-or-four-month affair somewhere in sub-Saharan Africa in defense of some hapless tribe threatened by Communist penetration.

This would have cleared the decks in time for the Arabs and Israelis to have held a war in the Middle East last winter. By now, we would have a breathing spell in which to enjoy the summer at the seashore without having our beach transistors crackling with war static. By fall we should all be sufficiently rested to endure perhaps a two-week war between India and Pakistan or a Cuban-inspired revolution in Latin America.

Opposition to an international war bureau was led by President de Gaulle, who refused to participate if Britain and the U.S. were to be represented. The U.S. and the Soviet Union, of course, never endorsed the idea. As competitors for the title of world peace champion, both felt that they had to be prepared to fight any time, at any place, to keep the peace.

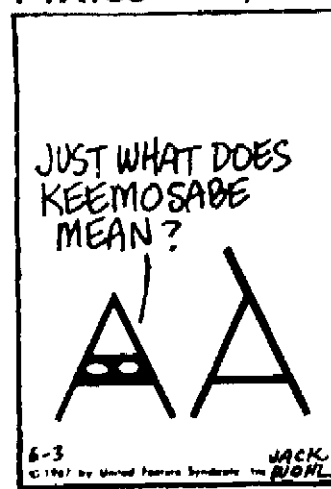

As a result, the small powers of the world complain that they have not been given their fair war share. Egypt and Israel, for example, have gone for nearly 11 years without a war, or even a good border skirmish. How, they want to know, can they be expected to keep peace in the Middle East if they are never to be allowed the chance to fight for it?

Feeling runs particularly high against the U.S. because it insists upon continuing its South-East Asian war year after year without permitting the smaller nations an opportunity to give their tanks a workout. There is little sympathy for this argument at the State Department, and less for the threat of Arabs and Israelis to open a war of their own in competition with the war in Vietnam. As Oscar Ladue, assistant secretary in charge of logic, said in a speech last week at Vassar, "the world can no longer tolerate war except as an American peace-keeping operation."

There is no arguing with the nobility of the American position. It aims at nothing less than the total abolition of war. Realistically, it leaves something to be desired, for all the evidence suggests that nations, and a good many people too, not only want war from time to time, but also rather enjoy it.

For this reason, an international bureau of wars makes good sense, particularly for the U.S. With every country entitled to take its turn and get it over with in a civilized length of time, at risk of having its license permanently revoked by the bureau, the U.S. could finally retire from the eternal, costly and bloody business of peace-keeping.

HOT STOVE LEAGUE

Baker Tosses Shutout

Byron Baker tossed a three-hit shutout for Holcomb and Sons last night as his team won a 3-0 decision over Weldon and Son in a County Bantam game played at Grand Valley. Baker had 16 strikeouts. He helped his own cause with two triples. Rick McFate contributed to the winners attack with a double. Only extra basehit for the losers was a triple by Tom Kibbee. Losing pitcher for Weldon and Son was Steve Yucha. This was the first game of the year for both teams.

Grangers Win Second

Diamond Grange of Tiona won its second game of the year with a 7-0 victory over McMillen Lumber last night in a County Bantam game played at Weldbank. The winning hurler was Steve Preloge. He fanned 16 opposing hitters and gave up just one hit, a single by the losing pitcher Danny Newberg. Preloge and Pat Gerarde blasted round-trippers for the winners while Mike Baldensperger lofted a double.

Heavy-Hitting Attack

The Akeley Merchants unleashed a 17-hit attack last night to wallop Schoonover Funeral Home and the Sugar Grove Farm Supply in a County Cadet League game played at Russell. Jamie Nesmith was awarded the win on the mound for Akeley. He gave up only one hit, a double to Randy Slater. John Olson paced the attack for the winners with a four-for-four night at the plate including a double and a home run. Nesmith and Bob Nelson cracked triples for Akeley. The losing pitcher was Chet Loomis.

Bliss Rolls Over VFW

Bliss Highway scored a walloping 22-6 win over the Clarendon VFW in a County Cadet League game played in Clarendon last night. Mike Madigan was the winning pitcher. He and Terry Edmiston and Duke Gheres all lashed triples for the winners. Dan Albaugh cracked two doubles and Cheres had a two-bagger as the Highwaymen rolled up the score. The only extra base hit for the losers came off the bat of Ed Alspaugh, a triple. The losing hurler was Randy Christensen. This was the first game of the year for both teams.

Components Win Third

Tom Tellman pitched the Saegertown Components to their third win of the year against a single loss last night as they tripped Warren Car 12-4 in a game played on the West side diamond. Three men did most of the bat work for the winners. Ricky Wolfe had a triple and two doubles. Leo English and Dan Schwanke each had a double and a triple. Other extra basehits for the winners saw Tellman and Randy Honhart blast doubles. Tellman fanned 13 in registering the win. Tom Regina was charged with the loss.

Old-Timers Meet Twin Under Lites

The Youngsville Old-Timers will make their exhibition debut tomorrow night against Twin Drive in at 7:30 p.m. at Carbon Memorial Field.

The Old-Timers are composed of men from the Warren-Youngsville area over the age of 35. Some of the players who will take the field for the Old-Timers are Pike Freeborough, Bill Unterreiner, Bill Shine, Big Bill Massa and Bob Harrison.

Dick Pearce, manager of the Old-Timers, has issued a strong challenge to Tony Prosen, manager of Twin Drive.

Pearce admitted that the Twin Drive is tough, but said that you have to play against the best to know what you have. He added that, when he played ball, he always played against the best.

Pearce said that his team is good, but he hasn't seen them under pressure. Pearce went as far as to say that his team is good enough to beat a couple of the fast pitch teams that they will play against before the year is over.

"The lights may bother the Old-Timers," Pearce noted, "but don't be surprised if we beat them."

Pearce concluded by saying: "So, Tony Prosen, have your Twin Drive in team at its best for Sunday night's game."

Twin Drive is currently riding a six-game winning streak. They are also the defending Recreation Softball League champions.

Prosen refused to comment on the game last night.

Any Old-Timer who has not picked up his uniform can get it at 15 Euclid avenue.

Jamestown Will Open NY-Penn Season June 23

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. — The Jamestown Baseball Club, now in the Atlanta Braves farm chain, met last night to formulate plans for the coming season.

Harry Dorish, a pitcher in the Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox organizations for 10 years, was announced as manager of the club. Dorish is presently in Palm Springs, Florida, assembling a 25-player roster to bring north in about ten days.

Jamestown will open play in the NY-Penn League on June 23rd, with the first home game on June 26th against Batavia. The club will play an 80 game schedule, closing the season on September 8.

Russell Dietrich was elected president of the club last night and Emmons Jones of Warren was re-elected to the board of directors. Marty Haines will continue as general manager.

Beverage Host For Twinbill Here Tomorrow

Warren Beverage plays its first home contest in the Erie Glenwood League tomorrow by hosting the Bihler Tire team of West Springfield in a doubleheader starting at 1 p.m. at War Memorial Field.

First place in the loop is riding on the outcome of the twinbill. West Springfield won its only outing and the Beveragemen are in second place with a 2-1 mark.

Scott Melville will pitch the opener for the locals, with either Roy Swanson or Jim Patterson on the hill in the second tilt. There will be no admission charge, but the hat will be passed to help defray league operating expenses.

One of West Springfield's top players is Sam Jethroe, ex-Boston Braves star and the 1950 Rookie of the Year in the National League.

Local Softball Team Plays in Erie Tomorrow

The Warren Beverage Softball team will play a doubleheader in Erie at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow against Hunter's Inn at 11th and Hess, Pulaski Field. The hosts are managed by Sam DeLoe, a former Clarendon resident.

Pitching for Hunter's Inn will be Jim Tinelli, who has labored in the City Softball League, and Bill Stuart.

The Beveragemen, who are currently on top in the City League with a 3-0 record, will send Dean Stewart and Johnny Berdine to the hill.

Emmons R. Jones, sponsor of the local entries, states that they will be a contender for the Pennsylvania Class B championship which will be played in Warren later in the summer.

Beverage, who is looking for as many games as possible before the tournament, will play a doubleheader in Johnsonburg on Saturday night, June 17.

Annual Buc Troutout Camp Set Here Next Saturday

The Pittsburgh Pirates will conduct a trout camp here on Saturday, June 10. The camp will be held at War Memorial Field and will be under the direction of Scouting Supervisor, Joe Consoli. Joe will be assisted by scouts Nick Creola of Warren and Joe Frisina of Corry. Players should report ready to go at 9 a.m.

Players must be 16 years of age to be eligible to attend the camp, and no American Legion players will be permitted to participate in the camp if such participation would interfere with any Legion activities. Such participation will only be permitted with a letter of approval from either his Legion Coach or the Commander of the Legion Post he represents in Legion play.

Players whose high school classes have not been dismissed for summer vacation will be permitted to participate if they have written permission from the principal of the high school they attend.

Players are expected to furnish their own shoes, uniforms, gloves, etc., with the Pirates furnishing all other equipment. Players will also be responsible for their traveling and living expenses, if any, with the understanding that expenses will be reimbursed to those players signed to contracts with Pittsburgh Organization Clubs.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Marty Willis lashed a tie-breaking triple last night as Pittsburgh rallied for three runs in the seventh inning and handed the Los Angeles Dodgers their third straight defeat, 5-3.

Beaty's Track Team Cops Title in Chadakoin Meet

FALCONER — Beaty Junior High School posted wins in only three events here last night, but finished high in a number of others to give them the Chadakoin Junior High School Track and Field championship as they defeated the nearest competitor by 11 1/2 points.

Beaty scored 51 points to 39 1/2 for Southwestern. In a triangular meet earlier this year Beaty finished second to Southwestern. Last night some of the other teams in the league pulled enough points away from the SWC that Beaty managed to edge out the win.

There were 10 teams competing for the League trophy. After the top two, it dropped all the way to 22 points for Washington. The scores dipped all the way to a single point for St. Peter and Paul of Jamestown.

The only winners that Beaty had were Eddie O'Neil, Dan Pierce and Dana Pusateri. O'Neil won the 440-yard run in a blazing 56.85. This was almost a full second better than Michalski of Washington.

Pierce won the 880 in a slow 2:14, but was not pushed by any of the other runners in the event. Pusateri leaped 37 11 to set a new meet record in the triple jump.

The triple jump and the long jump is where the Blue and Gold picked up many of their points. In the triple jump, Dan Reynolds finished second to give Beaty 10 points in this event.

In the long jump, Reynolds was second and Pusateri fourth to give the Blue and Gold six more points. This was almost one third of the team's total.

Jon Owens of Beaty scored a second and a third in the dash events. He was second in the 60-yard dash and third in the 150-yard dash.

The Littlest Dragons finished second in both the medley and 880 relays.

O'Neil, also a fine high jumper, cleared only 5'4 and had to settle for a third. Part of the reason for the lower-than-expected finish was the fact that he had to run a 440 late in the high jump competition.

Randy Brown was the only other high finisher for the locals. He took a second in the 100-yard hurdles.

The only other point-getter in the top five for Beaty was Bill Waites. He was fifth in the 100-yard dash.

Carpenter of Southwestern was the only double winner of the meet. He scored his firsts in the 60 and 150 yard dashes.

Long jump—1. Porter (W), 2. Reynolds (B), 3. Beebe (SW), 4. Pusateri (B), 5. Michalski (W). Distance—37'11 (new meet record) and Key: Beaty (B) 51, Southwestern (SW) 39 1/2, Washington (W) 22, Jefferson (J) 19, Lincoln (L) 17, Cassadaga Valley (C) 15 1/2, Dunkirk (D) 12, Falconer (F) 9, St. James (St. J) 6, St. Peter and Paul (St. P) 1.

Schnars Heads Pack At Stataline, Eriez

BUSTI, N.Y.—Some five years ago, Squirt Johns of Brockway won the first five events run at Stataline Speedway.

After breakfast members will paint the club building and clean up the club grounds.

Today, fans of Bob Schnars are wondering if he can emulate the success of his late brother.

He won by more than a half-lap and it could have been more, had he elected to fight the "traffic" which piled up in front of him over the last 10 laps. He was moving in behind the fifth and sixth-place cars, but took his sweet time getting around them, rather than risk a disastrous accident.

Far behind was Johns. His second-place finish was pretty distant, but it was the third time in four races he had managed a top-five finish on the circuit this year. So far, it looks as if he's the man to catch Schnars, if anybody can.

They all head a field of 40 cars for this weekend's late model racing at Stataline tonight at 8:30 and at Eriez Speedway tomorrow at 8 p.m. Eleven races are scheduled at each track, with 25-lap features for both sportsman and late model cars.

Other headlines include Tom Dill of Erie, Jim Scott of Grand Valley, and John Whitehead of North Clymer, N.Y.

Clay's foe will be Alvin "Blue" Lewis, a 216-pounder who has compiled a 10-0 record since turning pro last year.

Chuck Davey, Michigan boxing commissioner, said that since the fight will be an exhibition and Clay won't be billed as heavyweight champion, two possible objections to the granting a permit for the bout have been eliminated.

The commissioner still was studying, however, the possible significance of the fact that the exhibition is scheduled for 15 rounds, the same number of rounds for title fights.

Clay said the exhibition was being promoted by E&J Sports Club of Detroit, which tried unsuccessfully several times previously to get Clay to defend the title in Detroit when he held it.

Lewis said he would "try to learn something" in fighting Clay and that he was "glad to get the chance." He declined to discuss his chances against Clay.

Davey said it would be "strictly no contest."

Clay said, "I wouldn't say we'll be fighting, but we'll be working hard."

His last bout was March 22 which he won by a technical knockout over Zora Foley in the seventh round at Madison Square Garden in New York.

Warren Loses Again

It's becoming increasingly difficult to write tributes to resigning coaches—not because sincere compliments don't come easily to mind, but because their expression is overshadowed by the weight of loss to Warren athletics.

Joe Giordano's appointment to the Sheffield grid job was not unexpected and, although we disliked losing a good line coach, his advancement was applauded as a step in the right direction for an ambitious coach.

Fred Bell's acceptance of the new position in New Jersey was a real shocker. Not only do the Dragons lose a winning head coach, but we lose a friend. At least Giordano will remain in the county and we will be in almost constant touch throughout football season; Bell's leaving creates a void for us personally that will be hard to fill.

Loyal Briggs' announced resignation earlier this week is a combination of the situations created by the change in status quo due to the two previous resignations: Warren loses an outstanding coach, but at least he will still be in the area, although no longer directly related to athletics.

Our association with Loyal Briggs goes back to the early 1950's, when, as a freshman, we first went out for track. There was no Beaty team then and the frosh practiced with the varsity, an unrewarding experience as far as competition was concerned.

We had signed up for the sport along with another young fellow named Rodney Morley, and neither of us created a sensation that first year. The next season, we elected to hold a part-time job rather than go out for track, but Morley, who had decided he would be a middle distance runner, spent another year working on the cinders in something less than a starting role.

The 1952 and '53 seasons were important ones for both Loyal Briggs, who had stepped in as head track and field coach, and Rod Morley. Under Briggs' command, the Dragon thinclads went undefeated and placed second in the District meet both years, due in no small part to Morley's contribution.

Back for the sport during our junior and senior years, we played the role of an unimpressive weight man, while Morley became an outstanding half and quarter-miler. There's a moral there somewhere.

The point of the story is that Morley typified Warren track under the Briggs hand. Morley worked hard at running and Briggs worked equally hard at coaching.

The Briggs Dynasty

Although there were some lean years, the Dragons under Briggs attained the nickname "powerhouse," and more recently the track and field program here was labeled "a dynasty."

On the high school level, track and field is from a different mold than most of the other major sports: there are no big crowds, no cheerleaders, no bands playing. The only reward for a coach comes in seeing his charges do well, and Dragon thinclads under Briggs did extremely well.

About a year ago, we wrote a series of columns in which an imaginary all-time Warren High all-star track and field team ran, jumped and threw against the 1955-56 squads. Naturally, the members who "competed" for the 65-66 teams were all Briggs' boys, but so were most of the all-stars, so it could have been labeled an All-Loyal Briggs Track and Field Meet.

According to the score compiled by giving places based on the athletes' best times, heights and distances, the '65-66 squads defeated the All-Stars, but the real winner was Loyal Briggs. How many coaches can boast that he had coached the best the school has produced since the sport was adopted?

A modest, sensitive man, Briggs was reluctant to name the best boys who had ever competed under him for fear of forgetting someone, that's the type of person he is.

Looking back over the past 16 years, he characterized the boys who had produced for him as "all wonderful guys." Representing the fellows who were privileged to work under him, we can say he has been a pretty wonderful guy to us also.

As the senior head coach in the system, Briggs has typified the men who have been associated with Warren High athletics since J. B. Leidig held his first chalk talk and Joe Massa inflated his first basketball.

It's important to Briggs that he steps down with a potentially strong team coming back next year, he isn't the type of person to quit when the going gets tough.

His reason for resigning from the Beaty grid position is another indication of his character: he believes the new head football coach should have the opportunity of picking his own assistants.

Now, there's another big pair of shoes to fill in Warren athletics. Men like Loyal Briggs and Fred Bell have proven that the potential for winning is here. They have also establish-

Hill Opens Memphis Lead, Three Tied for 2nd Place

By BOB GILBERT
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) —

Dave Hill, who won only $220 here in 1962, and gave it all to a destitute woman and his caddy, widened his lead at the mid-way point of the $100,000 Memphis Open Golf Tournament yesterday.

Hill fired a 66, giving him a two-round total of 9-under-par 131 — his best 36-hole start since winning the Denver Open in 1961.

Rushing into a three-way tie for second, at 135, were South Africa's Gary Player, Australia's Bruce Crampton and Chuck Courtney of Minneapolis, Minn.

Hill birdied five holes and added 12 pars to hold the lead, and said he was lucky to shoot 66 after his opening day 65.

"This is probably the best I've played in two years," said Crampton. "I holed a lot of putts today." He led off with birdies on putts of 18 and 12 feet and holed out with a 30-foot chip shot for a birdie-2.

Player, who lost a playoff to Miller Barber in the Oklahoma City Open last week, said he is playing "amazingly good golf" considering his six-week layoff before returning to the tour recently.

"I spent six weeks at my ranch," he said, "You've got to have a hobby and my ranch is mine. But it's not very good to lay off that long. This has amazed me."

Player shot only three rounds of golf during the layoff. He got into trouble on the sixth hole when his drive struck a tree and his next shot landed in water, eventually giving him a bogey-6. Later he one-putted four greens for birdies.

Bert Weaver, in second place after the first round, shot a 72 yesterday, and fell seven strokes off the pace.

Harold Henning and Babe Hickey, both with 69s, were tied for fifth at 136. Steve Spray's 69 gave him a 137. Next at 138 are Alan Henning, defending champion Bert Yancey, Wayne Yates, Art Wall, Ron McCallister and Weaver.

Crampton needed only 30 putts yesterday and was driving well after taking last week off to study films to correct the arch of his swing.

"I have changed my swing frequently over the years," he said. "You have to change because your game changes from week to week — everybody's does."

Former champ Jack Nicklaus, bouncing from an alarming 77 Thursday, shot a 67 and qualified for the final two rounds. Referring to a bogey on the last hole, he commented: "That's something to make the cut after a choke."

Those at 145 and under made the cut.

In 1962, after reading a newspaper account of a Memphis woman selling corsages door to door to feed her three children, Hill gave her $200 of his purse and the rest to his caddy.

"I didn't have much money when I was coming up," he recalled. "I didn't win much money in that tournament, but I figured she could use it more than I could."

"I have scrambled well all this week," Hill commented. "I

No Jaywalking On The Course

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) — The mayor of St. Charles has come up with what may be a revolutionary step forward in the game of golf. It's an electronic fore.

Mayor Henry Vogt, the operator of the St. Charles Golf Course, installed an electric traffic signal on the 11th hole after a number of golfers complained of close calls from long drives.

Now a man can switch the traffic light to stop when he drives, then switch it to go when he reaches the green.

Vogt added one other precaution. He surrounded the signal with a screen to protect it from golf balls.

ed a reputation of fair play and honesty in the Warren coaching ranks.

As we noted above, it's hard to close the book on these men. Loyal Briggs now takes his place in line with Homer Fleming, J. B. Leidig, Joe Massa and Fred Bell, coaches who have led the Dragons to the heights of athletic success. It's a distinguished lineup.

Belmont Stakes Shaping Up as Two-Horse Battle

By ORLON ROBERTSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Favored Damascus and second choice Proud Clarion, drilling on tracks some 150 miles apart, drew words of approval from their trainers yesterday and then, with eight other lightly regarded 3-year-olds, were entered for the 99th running of the $125,000 added Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct.

Damascus, winner of the Preakness and the 6-5 favorite to take the 1 1/2-mile third leg of the Triple Crown, breezed three-eighths of a mile in 37 3/5 seconds at Delaware Park in a final workout. Then trainer Frank Whiteley Jr., loaded the swift striking colt on a van for the trip to Aqueduct with the laconic comment:

"He is ready. The blowout was just what I wanted. Keeping him away from Aqueduct shouldn't be a handicap. He knows the track."

The son of Sword Dancer-Keralia, owned by Mrs. Edith Bancroft, has made six of his 10 starts at Aqueduct for a record of four victories and two seconds, including triumphs in the Remsen last fall and the Bay Shore and Wood Memorial this year.

Proud Clarion, surprise winner of the Kentucky Derby but third in the Preakness after lagging in the early part of the race, put his finalicks at Aqueduct as trainer Loyd "Boo" Gentry watched.

The star of John Galbreath's Darby Dan Farm clicked off three-eighths in 34 2/5 and went out the one-half mile in 48 2/5 seconds under a tight hold by exercise boy Terry Grogan. The time for the three-eighths compared to a 35 2/5 second clocking posted by Proud Clarion the day before his Derby triumph.

"He was feeling real sharp," said the obviously pleased Gentry. "I had to wave him down after three-eighths. I believe he is the type of horse that will go 1 1/2 miles." The advance betting line, made by the track handicapper, quoted Proud Clarion at 5-2.

The Blueberry Hill Membership Golf League will open play on Monday, June 5.

The league will be made up of 12 six-man teams. All handicaps will be based on the current club handicap.

A new feature added to the league will be that each player is given a number and he will play the man on the opposing team in the same position. If a man is the number three man on his team, he will play the number three man of the opposing team.

The season will be 11 weeks long. There will be a tournament at the conclusion followed by a dinner.

The rosters and the handicaps of the players are as follows.

STYLE SHOP—Jim Lawson (5), Ross Kremer (6), Louis Vesio (7), Bob Eames (8), Dick Case (9), Joe Vought (13).
SYLVANIA—Al Albough (6), Lex Larson (7), Jim Howell (10), Jim Lynch (11), Chip Schager (11), Larry Green (12).
CHIMENTPS — John Guthrie (5), Larry Anderson (5), George

Entry fees of $250 each also were paid for Canada's Cool Reception, owned by Mrs. W. J. Seitz and Mrs. Vincent Reid; Patrice Jacobs' Reason to Hail, Michael Phipps' Gentleman James, John M. Schiff's Blasting Charge, Edgar Zantker's Prinkipo, J. M. Roebing's Gaylord's Feather, Herbert Allen's Favorable Turn and Mrs. Jane Levier's Nehoc's Bullet.

Gene Jacobs, trainer of Favorable Turn, waited until almost the last minute before deciding between the Belmont and the $25,000-added Kent at Delaware Park.

An additional payment of $1,000 each is due 45 minutes before the 5:30 p.m., EDT, starting time today. If the starting fee is paid by all of the 10, the Belmont will be worth $149,700 with the winner's share $105,950. Second place will be worth $25,000 with $12,500 for third and $6,250 for fourth.

Columbia Broadcasting system will televise the race from 5:45 p.m., EDT, with radio coverage down for 5:15-5:45. The draw for post positions gave No. 1 to Damascus, who'll be ridden by Bill Shoemaker. The Belmont will call for his cat-like quickness since the race starts midway of a turn with a one-eighth mile dash to the first of the two long straight-aways.

Proud Clarion, with Braulio Baeza replacing Bobby Ussery in the saddle, will leave from No. 4. He's usually a slow starter, but Gentry looks for Baeza to keep closer to the early pace than Ussery did in the Preakness, where his closing kick was not enough and came too late.

On the basis of past performances, Prinkipo and Cool Reception shape as the early speed horses, Prinkipo, named for the small Mediterranean island now known as Bayuk on which Leon Trotsky was exiled, has got away winging in his last three starts and won all by wide margins.

Cool Reception, whom trainer Lou Cavalieri didn't consider quite ready for the Kentucky Derby, matched Woodbine's 11-16-mile record of 1:42 3/5 in winning his last start by eight lengths.

The Canadian, with Johnny Sellers aboard, was made the co-third choice at 8-1 with Reason to Hail, a come-from-behind performer who has won a piece of the purse in his last seven races, including fourths in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness.

Prinkipo is a 15-1 outsider. Odds on the others range on upward with a victory by any of them an either bigger surprise than was Proud Clarion's triumph at 30-1 in the Derby.

NEW LEASE ON LIFE

The "Flying Duck," a commercial fishing boat on Lake Erie for years, is now operating as a charter boat at the Kinzua Dam. Cy Denmark, operator of the Wolf Run Marina, plans to make the craft available to sightseers and private parties. See story below. (Photo by Neal)

Famous Fishing Boat Launched At Kinzua Dam

The famed Flying Duck, the last commercial sport fishing boat to operate on Lake Erie, has been brought to the Kinzua Dam by Cy Denmark, operator of the Wolf Run Marina, to serve as a charter boat for sightseers and private parties.

Originally owned by Harold Smith, the Flying Duck was the last of about thirty fishing boats that served fishermen before blue pike fishing in the lake failed some six years ago.

The "Duck" carries 40 passengers and is powered by a 250 hp Chrysler marine motor. The 41 foot boat has a steel hull and a top speed of about 18 mph.

Now a man can switch the traffic light to stop when he drives, then switch it to go when he reaches the green.

Vogt added one other precaution. He surrounded the signal with a screen to protect it from golf balls.

AFTER TOUR IN FAR EAST

Cable Hollow Girl Now Editing Books

Life has a way of surprising us now and then and this has truly been the case with Ethel Young, a former resident of Russell.

Miss Young grew up on the family's farm, two miles east of town. Her early schooling was from her mother, a second-generation teacher in her own right. Eighth grade was finished under Jefferson Sears and high school was completed in the days of Principal Everett B. Eaton. College and graduate study followed in Maryland. Five of her earliest years' teaching experiences were back in her own home town where she had the first graders between 1937 and 1942.

In 1951 Miss Young was asked to go to the Far East as a Seventh-day Adventist missionary teacher. She spent four years there working in denominational elementary schools from Korea to West New Guinea.

Upon returning to the States Miss Young was asked to edit the Seventh-day Adventist edition of the Scott, Foresman and Company's basic reading series. It was originally to have just been a "short task" of getting out four primary books. But manuscripts grew into books, and in time there were fifteen basic readers and workbooks for pupils, with fourteen guidebooks printed for teachers. Testing materials increased the over-all project to 11,000 pages.

MISS ETHEL YOUNG
... now edits books

Contents of the texts include experience stories from fifteen different cultures in thirteen world divisions. Stories with twenty different holiday settings are presented in the series with nature and character building themes as well.

Currently Miss Young is working on a new primary multi-ethnic series and developmental readers for grades 7 and 8. "With new books to construct and revisions of old books always in demand," she says, "there is never a place to quit."

Recently a little songbook was released by the Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California. It contains five songs composed and used by Mrs. Fern Way, a cousin of Miss Young who teaches 1st grade in Russell at the present time. Along with prominent educators in New York, Philadelphia, and Cleveland, Mrs. Way has found that many children learn to read better if they sing words as they read them.

When Ethel Young observed the success of her cousin's classroom experimentation, she asked Mrs. Way to permit her to use some of the songs she had composed and used successfully in her teaching of first graders in Russell. Mrs. Way agreed, and nine songs were included in the reading series. Mrs. Helen Lindell did the photography used in the latest printing.

Yes, life has a way of surprising us now and then. Surely the girl from "Hungry Hollow" (as Akeley Hollow was then called) never expected to be making basic readers.

"It's a tremendous challenge," she says, "and a weighty responsibility."

Girls signing up from the Sheffield area will be picked up in Sheffield in the morning, if desired. This way they won't have to go all the way to Warren every morning, it was announced. In the afternoon after swimming at the "Y" campers should arrange their own transportation home.

It was also announced that openings still remain in the Boy's Day Camp as well as the resident camp on Lake Chautauqua. Parents are urged to register their child now, to be assured of a place.

Blue Cross Denied Rate Increase

HARRISBURG (AP) — A proposed $449,900 rate increase by the Blue Cross of Northeastern Pennsylvania was denied yesterday by the State Insurance Department.

Insurance Commissioner David O. Maxwell said in a letter to Group President Ralph S. Smith that an increase of $207,830, or 3.5 per cent, seemed adequate. The proposed boost would affect 150,000 credible group subscribers.

Maxwell said that his decision to reject the higher 7.6 per cent proposal was based on an evaluation by the Insurance Department and an independent actuarial firm.

"I find that an average increase of 3.5 per cent in these rates is justified, and would protect the public by accounting for increases in hospital costs and maintaining adequate reserves to pay subscribers' hospital bills," Maxwell wrote.

Last April 13, Maxwell denied a request for a 6.4 per cent increase in the rates of 35,000 non-credible group subscribers, but did allow a 3.2 per cent boost.

A credible group is a classification of subscribers large enough to make its own experience in any one year's time actuarially reliable, Maxwell explained. Non-credible groups are classifications of fewer than 75 subscribers whose experience is not regarded as actuarially sound.

Blast Blackens Erie

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — A short-circuit triggered explosions and fire in underground conduits yesterday, leaving Erie's downtown without electricity for a few hours.

Some 33 blocks—roughly an area of three blocks by 11 blocks — was without power. There were no injuries and no damage estimate.

C. L. Imhoff, assistant division manager of Pennsylvania Electric Co., said the blaze ruined two of the five main conduits servicing Erie. He said repairs were underway and normal power operations would probably resume by tomorrow.

Imhoff said Penelec, which furnishes power to Erie, could adequately serve the area with two cables but that the company asked the 500 commercial users in the area to curtail their usage as a precautionary measure.

Imhoff said insulation on a cable apparently ignited from a spark and burned back into a bank of cables, triggering a series of explosions and fires.

Penelec officials took the downtown network out of service to protect the rest of the system while firemen and company workers fought the blaze.

Elevators were slowed and air conditioning usage was cut slightly but there was no great inconvenience, said Imhoff.

Yemeni Die From 'Gas Bombs'

(c) N.Y. Times News Service GENEVA — The International Committee of the Red Cross announced yesterday that "many" inhabitants of a village in North Yemen died by asphyxiation after a bombing attack last month. It added that a Red Cross medical team had found "various indications pointing to the use of poison gas bombs."

The bombing took place several days before the medical team arrived on May 15 and 16 to treat the survivors, the announcement said. It explained that the team had been delayed because its truck convoy was bombed while on its way to the village.

The all-Swiss committee, which has the controlling voice in International Red Cross activities, did not say whose planes were responsible. In response to questions, a spokesman said only that the village was "probably" in Royalist territory.

Reliable sources here said afterwards that the United Arab Republic, which has stationed an expeditionary force believed to total up to 50,000 men in Yemen to support the Republican regime against the Royalists, carried out the attack. Later in May, they said, other gas attacks by the United Arab Republic killed at least 75 persons in two other Royalist-held villages.

IN A PUFF OF DUST

There was a rush and a roar and a tremendous crash when the tallest steeple of the former First EUB Church on Third ave. was reduced to rubble yesterday by wrecking crews engaged in the demolition job to clear the area for municipal purposes. When the air cleared only a small portion of the edifice remained. (Photo by Mansfield)

THE FINAL TOUCH

This was the church and this its tallest steeple. The latter was felled yesterday by the L. T. Oliver Co. of Erie, who contracted to level the 100-year-old former First

EUB Church, a landmark in the community. It was a precarious operation which attracted numerous spectators. The smaller east steeple came down Wednesday. (Photo by Mansfield)

Program at this statewide 4-H Camp is designed to develop desirable social traits, develop recreational and educational experience in outdoor living away from home, explore new interests, acquire new skills, develop untried talents, and learn to meet group responsibilities.

Camp is organized into junior leader and adult leader sections. During afternoon sessions, workshops are combined for all campers. Camp Kanesatake is located near Pennsylvania Furnace in Center County.

Kiasutha Opening Delayed 10 Days By Water Failure

The U.S. Forest Service announced Thursday that due to a last minute failure in the water system, the Kiasutha Recreation Area did not open on June 1, as announced earlier.

Present plans are for repairs to be completed and the area made operational in about 10 days. It is now planned to open the area on Saturday, June 10.

Kiasutha is located about nine miles northwest of Kane and just off Route 321. It has facilities for swimming, boating, camping and picnicking.

Blakeslee was charged for speeding, reckless driving and two counts of running red traffic signals.

ment area was not known. One said loss in the fire was that of graduation outfits for two of the family which had been purchased for Thursday's commencement exercises.

Town Crier

... By Les Rickey

I value my services as a public relations man highly. This is not because I'm an exceptionally good public relations man; rather, it is because the job appeals to me not in the slightest, hence it would take something near a fortune to entice me into doing it.

But occasionally I weaken, and it is then that I find myself planning massive campaigns for some group or another. This is usually done mentally, so I harm no one (with the possible exception of my own conscience).

It was in this mood that I came up with a formula the other day for a massive campaign to sell Warren County as THE spot to spend two weeks this summer. I felt I had to commit it to paper.

It would go something like this, in newspaper, magazine, and pamphlet publicity:

In the northwest corner of Pennsylvania lies a patch of ground with more than historical background and the usual tourist traps. It's called Warren County.

Around the country, there's a mad rush to be where it's happening. Warren County is where it isn't happening. That's why it's wonderful. And wonderful is the word. There are seven reasons why. We call them the Seven Wonders of Warren County.

There's Kinzua Dam, the piece of concrete and steel near Devil's Elbow on the Allegheny River. It was built at a cost of six communities and an Indian reservation to serve the recreational needs of the nation. The lake behind it reaches 40 miles upstream into New York State, with 90 miles of wooded shoreline. There are the wonderfully clear waters. The

LACK OF FUNDS

Mental Health Plans Limited

The Warren County Commissioners have been advised there will be certain limitations to financing programs of the Mental Health Mental Retardation Act due to Governor Shafer's and the Legislature's concern over the current budget.

Max Rosen, secretary of the state Department of Public Welfare, said the very complexity of financing this program has delayed completion of regulations presently in preparation. He added that at the same time there are factors which press for and encourage the development of services at the earliest possible moment. Rosen said "enthusiasm may lead to the proposal of services without full fiscal knowledge."

The secretary told the commissioners that while his department encourages the selection of the best qualified person to fill the necessary positions, there is a realization there are limitations to state and county funds available. He said that part of a salary which exceeds the permissible limits fixed now or hereafter fixed by the state, or in the absence of such action, the state scale for an equivalent position will not normally be accepted in determination of the state share of the financial burden for positions in the county or private agencies operating under the plan.

Rosen repeated to mental health agencies which have received federal staffing grants the warning which they have received from the DPW staff. The state is not committed to absorbing the non-federal share.

According to Rosen, the general rule is that those persons now eligible for service under existing programs financed from other sources such as child welfare may not be transferred to the new mental health and mental retardation program for the same service.

Oil City's IFC Fund: $40,000

The total in the Oil City campaign on behalf of the Inter-Faith Center of Warren State Hospital climbed to $37,000 yesterday afternoon and campaign leaders expect the figure to exceed $40,000 when all returns are collected.

The new total was given a boost with first reports from the church membership solicitation which started last Sunday. General chairman Charles A. Morrison said that partial reports from nine local churches produced $1,945.

The first churches to turn in reports included St. Joseph, St. Stephen, St. Venantius, Our Lady Help of Christians, Christ Episcopal, Heckathorn EUB, Second Presbyterian, Bethel Methodist, Grace Methodist and Christ Lutheran.

Other area churches are conducting their drives this week and next according to Rev. Paul Hannaford, church committee chairman.

Morrison said that there are about fifty prospect cards still in the hands of volunteer workers. Another total in the drive will be announced next week, he said.

Emphasis will be given to those programs and services with primary responsibility for the mentally ill and mentally retarded.

Rosen said the DPW can only share in the financing of approved programs and urged the commissioners to show prudence and caution in making any commitments concerning salaries, purchase of services or other financial contracts without firm assurance that such agreements can be met.

Two Corry Men Arrested in Station Thefts

Two Corry men were apprehended at 4:10 a.m. yesterday in the parking lot adjacent to Lobdell's Keystone Station on Pennsylvania ave. where they were stripping motor vehicles of parts.

Arrested and to be charged with larceny are Richard L. Trisket, 22, of 109 Park ave., Corry and Jimmy Dale Wood, 19, of the same address, according to borough police Sgt. Donald E. Fitch, the investigating officer.

Officer Edward E. Peterson was with Fitch when the two were picked up.

Removed from parked vehicles at the service station were four tires, including one from the foreign model sports car driven by the victim of a fatal accident Sunday on the Jake's Rocks rd. Two hub caps had also been taken.

Police are continuing their investigation.

Missing Girl Found After River Search

SALAMANCA, N.Y. — Police and firemen searched the Allegheny River Thursday night for the body of a 17-year-old girl who had supposedly been caught in the river's current. A half hour later, at 11:15 p.m. police found the girl, Sue Watson, at the home of her sister.

The search party was sent out when Salamanca police received a call from Bonnie Myers, of 66 River st., and Monroe Adams of Steamburg, saying they heard a scream and could not locate their friend.

Apparently the girl and her swimming partner, Craig John of Killbuck, had finished swimming and were headed for the east end of Salamanca.

Erie Blacks Out After Explosion

ERIE—An explosion and fire in an electrical conduit on W. 10th st. caused a power failure affecting a ten-block downtown area which lasted almost three hours yesterday.

The block on W. 10th between Peach and Sassafras will be without electrical power indefinitely.

Pennelco officials were unable to explain the cause of the mishap, which charred yards of underground electrical cables between the manhole in front of Halle's and one at the intersection of 10th and Peach. The blast was reported at 1:15 a.m.

THE GLENN RESTAURANT in its sylvan setting on the Hearts Content Road was chosen by the members of the Fifth Wheel of the Welcome Wagon for its meeting on Thursday evening. After a dessert was served, and a business meeting was held—Mrs. Sam Reed presided—a Chinese Auction was held. This is similar to a white elephant sale, people bring good, but unwanted items or trinkets to be auctioned with the very sound idea, that what is not for one may very well be just the thing for another—and of course, vice versa—Tonight the members of Fifth Wheel are joining Newcomers at a dinner-dance at the Jackson Valley Country Club. The next activity planned is "A Night at Chautauqua" and more on this will be announced later.

MINIATURES: The Friendly Neighbor Club of Akeley is to picnic for lunch on Wednesday, June 7 at 1 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Melvin Swanson, Route 2, Russell. The hostess will provide dessert and coffee.

Jim Buck of 713 1/2 Fourth street, Warren is now in the Cleveland Clinic Hospital for surgery and treatment. He dropped a note saying he would like to hear from his friends.

The Pre-School Child Study Group meets Monday evening at 7:30 for its annual banquet at the Driftwood in Jamestown. Miss Marian Sleeman of the Warren County Board of Assistance will be the guest speaker.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As I sit here waiting for my adulterous husband to come home (usually between 3:00 A.M. and 6:00 A.M.) I feel compelled to write an answer to the Bronxville tramp who is mad because people don't look more kindly on "the other woman."

The Bronxville tramp said every married man who winds up in the arms of another woman is there because the other woman can give him something his wife cannot give him—namely a keen appreciation for life and the good things it has to offer. The dumbbell doesn't realize her chief attraction is sex, with no responsibilities. You can be sure if she makes any demands on that married man he'll drop her like a hot potato.

I am sick of asking myself, "Where did I fall?" I can truthfully say I did my damndest, but no woman can make a marriage work by herself. It was my husband who failed. And he failed because he was too immature and too weak to accept the responsibilities of a husband and father.

I know you will not print my letter because you are pro-male, and furthermore it has a cuss word in it, so that can be your excuse.—GETTING LATE IN DALLAS

DEAR DALLAS: Here's your letter and a good one it is—cuss word and all. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The biggest mistake of my life was agreeing to go steady with Jake. Now I am fed up with him and his possessive ways but I just can't get him to leave me alone. I told Jake two weeks ago that I wanted to call it quits. He bawled his head off and I didn't have the heart to go through with it. Saturday I told him again that I just had to be free to date others and that he should stop calling me. He said if I quit going with him he would become mentally disturbed and flunk out of school and become a bum.

I don't want to be responsible for the ruin of a person's life but I really am bugged by this guy's pestiness and I need to know what to do.—TOO LOVABLE

DEAR LOVE: Bid him farewell and make it a positive statement—not the first sentence of a debate. Too many girls are flattered by a boy's persistence, so they encourage him to keep hanging around by being less than emphatic. Could you be one of those?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My parents are driving me crazy. I am not a teen-ager, I'm a married woman with kids of my own. Dad has been seeing some gold digger for five years. Every day Mother screams at him about cancelled checks made out to cash. She accuses him of spending the money on a floozy and he denies it. (I am sure she is right.) Dad is 62 years old, in poor health and nothing to look at. The only thing he could possibly do for a woman would be to give her money.

In all fairness I must say Dad pays the bills and doesn't embarrass the family by being seen in public with anyone. He has warned Mother to stop nagging him and reading to him from the scriptures or he will leave.

I think she should accept the situation and settle for what she has. What do you say?—FED

DEAR FED: Since neither your mother nor dad wrote to me I don't feel it is my place to say anything. Urge your mother to talk to a counselor and to take his advice.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

MRS. MILO JAMES (Kofod Studio)

Bethel EUB Church Setting For Exchange Of Vows

Miss Helen Shelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shelley of Lewis Run, Pa., became the bride of Milo James, son of Mr. Lester James of Ellicottville, New York, on May 27. The 2 p.m. ceremony was performed by the Reverend Frank Wood in the Warren Bethel Evangelical United Brethren Church. A reception followed in the social rooms. The altar was decorated with baskets of gladioli and daisies.

Miss Sandra Shelley was maid of honor for her sister and JoAnn Shelley was junior bridesmaid for her sister. Miss Cathy Wooster was bridesmaid and Miss Lisa Lattin, flower girl. Melvin James served as best man for his brother, Ushers were Eddie Lattin and Marvin James.

Carrying white daisies, the bride appeared in a wedding gown of white nylon organza over bridal taffeta. The molded bodice was fashioned with a natural waistline accented by tiny front and back bows and long sleeves tapered to wedding points. Delicate Chantilly lace sprinkled with irridescent was applied to form the scalloped sabinia neckline. The voluminous skirt, which swept into a chapel train, was edged with a double band of lace. The bouffant veil of import silk illusion was caught to a pert cluster of organza petals accented with seed pearls.

The bride's attendants worn gowns of brocaded taffeta with headpieces made of clusters of leaves and tiny flowers with butterfly veils. The bridesmaids wore yellow and the flower girl and maid of honor wore blue. Each had matching colors of daisy bouquets.

Mrs. Ronald Fitzgerald provided organ music and Nelson Bonning sang "I'll Walk Beside You," "The Wedding Prayer," and "Wedding Benediction."

At the reception a four tier wedding cake crowned with wedding bells served as the centerpiece. Miss Connie Simones cut the cake. Miss Diane Silze served punch, and Miss Suzie Avery poured coffee. Miss Becky Wood was in charge of the guest book.

For the honeymoon trip, the bride chose a green suit with tan coat and wore a white carnation corsage.

The bride is a 1964 graduate of Bradford High School and has been employed by Allegheny Buffalo China Company in Clarendon. The groom is employed at Speers in Bradford. The couple will make their home at 93 High street in Bradford. Pre-nuptial showers were given by Connie Simones and Cathy Wooster of Warren and Mrs. Thomas Haines of Bradford.

Golden Anniversary Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Pearson of Linwood Avenue, Jamestown, were honored Sunday, May 28, at an open house at the Zion Covenant Church, to celebrate their Golden wedding anniversary. Approximately 150 guests were present.

The couple was feted by the church, of which they are both active members; she being a member of the Ladies Aid and the C.W.A.; and by their sons, Richard and James, and families.

The reception was aided by Mrs. James Pearson and Miss Doris Peterson at the punch bowl; Mrs. Richard Pearson and Mrs. Carl Anderson, who poured; Mrs. Wesley Davis cutting the tiered cake and the Misses Christine and Connie Pearson, granddaughters, managing the guest book.

The program consisted of devotions by Pastor Eldon Johnson, with solos by Mrs. Harold Johnson and by Pastor and Mrs. Johnson. A tribute was made to the couple by their eldest son, Richard, who read clippings from the paper of their wedding 50 years ago.

Mr. Pearson was employed at Art Metal Construction Co. as a metal grainer for 40 years until his retirement in 1957. The same year the couple sailed to Sweden and Denmark where they spent 4 months vacationing with relatives.

Besides their 2 sons, they have 5 grandchildren. Two sons died in infancy.

Out of town guests included friends and relatives from Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, Akron, Ohio, Cleveland, Ohio, Corry, Pa., Warren, Pa., Mayville, Lakewood, Buffalo and Rochester, N.Y.

Miss Diane Blanset of Johnstown, Penelac's System Home Economics director, said the classes, held in conjunction with community recreation programs, will begin June 5 and will continue until September 1. She said this summer's expected enrollment is greater than in any previous year. The program began in Towanda in 1949 with 30 girls in the first class. The classes require one and a half to two hours and are held in the mornings and afternoons.

Miss Blanset said 23 Student Home Economists, college girls studying home economics, will be hired to conduct the classes. Communities where the classes will be held will be announced the first week in June. She added that several of the girls have taught the classes in past summers.

The classes consist of four days of instruction and a special graduation ceremony on the fifth day, to which the girls' parents and friends are invited. During the classroom instruction, the girls are taught food preparation and the use and care of the electric range and other kitchen appliances. At the graduation ceremony, certificates and Reddy Kilowatt pins are presented to the graduates.

Hints From Heloise Spin The Lid

DEAR FOLKS:
For those of you who cook instant rice or anything that says, "Put the lid back on..."

Did you know that after you stir the contents in the pot, and put the lid back on, that if you TWIST the lid and let it spin a bit as if you were playing a roulette wheel... that the steam from the hot water would seal the lid? You can't possibly lift that lid without a firm pull!

Try it next time. I also find that it utilizes the same idea as a pressure cooker. Not one iota of that steamy heat will escape. And your food will stay warmer longer.

How's about that?
Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
I always keep a piece of sandpaper handy to polish my garden tools with after each use.

It removes all particles of the damp soil that causes rust and puts on the tools.
Florence J. Conway

DEAR HELOISE:
A clip board is so handy on a car trip. Just fold your map and clip it to the board showing the part needed.

You can also keep a few pieces of notebook paper under the map for notes or instructions.

Sure prevents a lot of loose maps flopping around the car and you also have a nice writing board.
London Lou

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
DEAR HELOISE:
Well, whatever will be will be, so there is nothing to do but wait and see. I try to keep my fingers crossed but find it mighty hard to type that way.
Doris D.

DEAR HELOISE:
Exercising can be such a drudge that we often find ourselves neglecting it. This is the way I take mine.

I turn on a really danceable record and convert my exercises into dances.

I dance all over my living room, all by myself! It's a method of self-expression and I find I feel better physically and mentally!

This turns drudgery into fun for me! Try it.
Aline Becker

DEAR HELOISE:
If you have two throw rugs exactly alike that are foam backed and shedding rubber terribly... scrape as much of the rubber backing off as possible and sew the two rugs together, back to back. Just whip stitch around the edges with matching thread.

Now you have a reversible rug which will give you twice the wear.
Mrs. Gloria Eskew

Thanks oodles, Gloria! This idea is what I call getting the most out of something that doesn't last as long as we thought it should!

If you have just one rug with this shedding problem, fold it in half and stitch around the three open sides. Makes a nice bath mat.
Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Do you hate to open sardine cans and such which require the use of those little pesky keys?

I found a real handy way to do this... by inserting a small screwdriver through the handle of the key and twisting it.

It's a lot quicker and much easier on my fingers.
M. K. K.

DEAR HELOISE:
After planting my flower seeds this year, I saved the packets they all came in and will use them to store the new seeds I gather for next year's planting.

By putting them back in the original containers not only will they be easy to identify, but I will also have planting directions. Something we may forget from year to year.
Mrs. Hayes

DEAR HELOISE:
If we are interested in getting seedlings going early, we drop the seeds in a pan of lukewarm water for a few hours (or overnight) before planting them. This soaking softens the hard exterior shells and allows them to sprout faster.

After you do this, plant the seeds in dirt-filled paper picnic cups and put in boxes for easy carrying.

The cups can be kept in a warm place until the weather permits planting. Then just slash each cup down the side, lift out the plants and set along in the rows or hills, with the dirt still attached to the roots.
Lorena

DEAR HELOISE:
As a professional manicurist, may I suggest that housewives buy the longer emery boards. They will find they can get a prettier shape to their fingernails.

Hold it lightly on one end and do the filing from the center to the opposite end. This always makes a beautiful taper.

World News Jitters Too Much for Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Foreign news jitters again proved too much for the stock market yesterday and it closed lower after erasing an early advance.

The loss was moderate, however, and turnover was well below the year's daily average of about 9.8 million shares.

Volume was 8.06 million shares compared with 10.04 million in Thursday's vigorous recovery session.

The momentum of the Thursday snapback was still felt yesterday morning when stocks moved ahead in a follow-through. Part of the rise was linked with a feeling that as long as the Israeli-Egyptian crisis is concentrated on diplomatic rather than the military action, there was hope for peace.

The early rise gradually wilted and the market was no better than mixed when news came in the afternoon that the Soviet Union had charged American planes with bombing a Russian ship in a North Vietnamese port. This triggered immediate market weakness.

On second glance, the Soviet protest did not appear to be very threatening, so losses were cut.

The Dow Jones industrial averages fell 1.67 to 863.31.

Of 1,436 issues traded, 653 fell and 536 rose, New highs for the year totaled 43 and new lows 31.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 1.2 to 319.5 with industrials down 2.1, rails off .1 and utilities off 1.0.

Judas and the Money

By REV. T. E. SPOFFORD
Methodist Churches,
Sugar Grove—Lottsville, Pa.

John 12: 1-8
When we think about "Judas and the Money", we usually think how he betrayed his Lord for 30 pieces of silver. But today's story too, where Judas complains because of the expensive ointment that was used to anoint Jesus' feet, is also indicative of Judas's character. In fact, we might say, that if Judas had only allowed his life to be opened to the truths that Jesus was trying to get across to him at the time of this anointing — Judas never would have gone out to connive with the rulers to betray his Lord.

There is the thought in regard to Judas that he was the greatest nationalist among the disciples, the one most anxious for Jesus to head a revolt against Rome and establish the Jewish Kingdom again. So, according to this theory, he still believed in Christ, even when he betrayed Him, but he betrayed Him not for the money but in order to force His hand, so that He would summon those legions of angels and defeat Rome. Then when he saw how his plans had miscarried, he was overcome with remorse and went out and hanged himself.

So, whether the love was of power or money, in either case, he didn't really put God first, and he did what people so often try to do with their faith, they try to manipulate God, to bend God's will to theirs, rather than to blend theirs into God's. But to return to the story today and the "waste" of the money on precious ointment. Isn't this a good argument, to give it to the poor? But think of Judas's motives, which the Gospel writer makes clear were not of the highest. Judas' answer reveals a certain amount of covetousness, as well as lack of sensitivity to the occasion — both as to how Jesus must have felt, and the woman too, at his remark.

Finally, we might say that this incident shows the primacy of worship. Jesus did not condone poverty with the words "For the poor ye have always with you; but me ye have not always". Suppose every Judas could convince every Mary that she should not do the kind of thing that was done here. Would the poor be better off? Yes, doubtless they would for awhile, if the money that is put into churches, for example, went into projects of social welfare. But I dare say that in the long run the poor would be worse off . . . for with the dying of the worship of God would go the dying of the teachings of God, and without Christianity how much can one rely on man's natural goodness?

This incident, like so many in the Bible, makes us realize how spiritually poor we are in the sight of God, how rich He is, and how we must look to Him for our salvation.
